

ONLINE EDUCATION

In today's healthcare climate, meeting the educational needs of the skilled nursing facility (SNF) LPN/LVN or RN in a traditional classroom setting is simply not practical.

Online education provides a safe and effective alternative to the traditional classroom model in order to remain compliant and up to date with continuing education.

It is IV Mastery's goal to provide high quality and affordable IV education to those who need it, how they need it, and when they need it.

One concern might be that students do not learn as effectively with online education as traditional classroom education; this is not the case. A 2018 study conducted by MIT comparing online education to classroom education showed that over 70% of all students and educators believe online instruction to be as good as or better than a traditional classroom setting.

IV CERTIFICATION REQUIREMENTS

First, Education Requirements for LPN/LVN
Most state boards require additional education for an LPN/LVN to be able to manage the infusion of patients. This is what IV Mastery provides.

Second, Competency Demonstrations
To become qualified to perform infusion therapy as an LPN/LVN, you must demonstrate your competency by completing a skill check overseen by a facility preceptor.

Third, Scope of Practice
To be allowed to manage infusion therapy on patients, LPN/LVN must make sure they are working within the legal scope of practice defined by their State Board of Nursing.

IV Education requirements for RNs
the Infusion Nurses Society recommends, due to the lack and/or inconsistency of infusion therapy in basic nursing curricula, that the RN complete an organized educational program on infusion therapy.

It is our hope at IV Mastery that we can partner with you to meet your educational needs, and help you achieve new heights of success!
